A BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE ON ROGER VIETS

Roger Viets, the S. P. G. missionary in New England, a portion of whose journal appears in the following facsimiles, was born at East Granby, Connecticut, on March 9, 1737/8, the son of John and Lois (Phelps) Viets. Having received his A.B. degree from Yale College in 1758, he was ordained in London in March, 1763, and became the Society's missionary in and about Simsbury, Connecticut, in that same year. His labors carried him outside his mission station in all directions, especially into Massachusetts. On August 28, 1786, he was rewarded for having endured the rigors of the American Revolution by being appointed the Venerable Society's missionary at Digby, Nova Scotia, continuing there (except for a visit to the States) until his death on August 11, 1811, at the age of 74.<sup>1</sup> While resident in New England, his energy carried him to at least the following towns where he ministered:

Avon, Connecticut
Barkhamsted, Connecticut
Bloomfield, Connecticut
Branford, Connecticut
Canton, Connecticut

His many missionary reports from Simsbury to the S. P. G. in England are extant and may be examined on films in the Diocesan Archival Collection. A few have been published in abbreviated form,<sup>2</sup> some specimens of which will appear below. Viets' career is discussed in our principal diocesan history<sup>3</sup> and in a recent Yale doctoral dissertation.<sup>4</sup> One of his letters to the Rev. Bela Hubbard, of New Haven, dated Oct. 19, 1767, was edited by William Agur Beardsley a quarter of a century ago.<sup>5</sup> He is mentioned in sketches of his kinsman, the Rt. Rev. Alexander Viets Griswold,<sup>6</sup> and in accounts of early Yale alumni.<sup>7</sup> An excerpt from one of his letters to Abraham Beach, written at Nova Scotia, ca. August, 1788, describing that province and his work in it, has recently appeared.<sup>8</sup> Another letter—to Samuel Parker, March 19, 1787—is owned by the Massachusetts Diocesan Library, 1 Joy Street, Boston 8. in Connecticut, though not so large as Stratford Church. I hope in a short time, to give the Honourable Society some further account of this glorious undertaking. A few scattering inhabitants of a settlement called Noblestown, about 8 miles west of Great Barrington, have erected a frame of a very small Church.

I am, Rev. Sir,

Your most obedient, humble Servant,
ROGER VIETS.

Synsbury, June 23d, 1764.

Rev. Sir :

My labor and success are much the same as I have mentioned in my former letters. In the last half year I have christened 1 adult and 41 infants, buried 5, married 2 couple. Many (if not the major part) of conformists, as well as of others, in my neighborhood, apply to the civil magistrate to be married.

With the utmost grief and concern, I observe that there are great numbers in my mission unbaptized, and many persons whom I have good reason to think very well qualified for the Lord's Supper, yet neglect that blessed Sacrament. Both these sorts I have endeavoured in public and private to bring to a sense of their duty; but the general excuse is: "These Sacraments will not save us." "If we have true faith, we shall be saved without them." "And if we have not, we shall perish though baptized and communicants." These and other false reasonings I endeavoured to confute, and shall labour still more to support the credit of the holy Sacraments. The books which the venerable Society were so good as to send me I have distributed in the best manner I was able, and they have done excellent service. Now I am humbly necessitated to request some more Prayer Books and pious Tracts; such as the venerable Society shall think proper, especially some concerning the nature, design, necessity, importance and usefulness of the two Sacraments, and something to explain the cross in Baptism, and the responses of the sureties, which seem stumbling blocks to some. Such books are uncommonly necessary in my mission, being 35 miles from any other Episcopal minister, and the dissenting teachers of this country too lightly esteem the Sacraments. I should be extremely thankful to the venerable Society, if it might please them to bestow upon me, for my own use, some more large expositions and defence of the articles, canons, liturgy, offices, rites, ceremonies and injunctions of the Church, than I have yet read. Such books

Synsbury, March 14th, 1764.

Rev. Sir :

I have continued hitherto with gratitude, and to the utmost of my power, to serve the Honourable Society, and, by God's blessing, with good success. A considerable body of people in and about Great Barrington having conformed to the Church. I being the nearest Missionary to them, undertook to visit them as often as I conveniently could, till the Honourable Society should have otherwise ordered. In one of my visits I joined a couple in Marriage, having previously had evidence of their legal publication, of the consent of the parents and guardians of the parties, and that there was no just cause or impediment why they should not be joined together. For this I was arrested at my next visit on the 30th of January, in the midst of my congregation, and in my robes, soon after the conclusion of the morning Service, and conveyed within one or two hours to the County Jail, where I continued 8 days, (with many indulgences from the jail-keeper;) and then gave bond with 3 substantial sureties for my appearance at the Court, which is 50 miles from Synsbury: I employed 3 Attorneys and attended the Court, but the action was never entered in the county clerk's book against me: the gentleman who prosecuted me was one Mr. Mark Hopkins, town clerk, county treasurer, King's Attorney, and brother to the dissenting teacher at Great Barrington, who took me to Mr. Timothy Hopkins, brother to the same dissenting teacher. My expense in this affair, besides the disgraceful insults and indignities I have suffered, amounts to a considerable sum, and has been of great detriment to me and the people of my Mission. I submit to the Honourable Society's approbation or censure, and beg their advice and direction, for which I wait with impatience. My licence from the lord Bishop of London extends throughout New England, and as to what is mentioned in the writ (a copy of which I send enclosed,) concerning a certificate from the town clerk, there are frequent instances of marrying without it: however, after the marriage I demanded, and procured it, and send a copy also enclosed. The judges of the Court treated me with kindness and complaisance; and I have reason to think they were very far from beginning or forwarding the prosecution. I could produce very full testimonies of my labours and success at Great Barrington and adjacent parts, as well as at Synsbury. The people of Great Barrington have actually begun to provide materials for erecting a Church, which is to be by far the most beautiful and expensive building in that County. The plan is taken from the Church at Stratford

I would peruse several times with the greatest attention, and should then be more ready to give a convincing answer to every query and objection of dissenters, many of whom seem to need only the being informed to conform.

The good people of St. Ann's Church, Salmonbrook, proceed towards the completing of their little church, as fast as their poverty and other difficulties will admit. The good people of Great Barrington have now raised the frame of their church, which, though not large, yet, on account of its architecture, beauty, expense and regularity, would be reckoned no mean country church, even in England. It is 50 feet by 40, with a front gallery, a beautiful chancel, and a steeple about 115 feet high. It is named Christ Church in Great Barrington. There are in my possession 4 deeds, from some good people of Great Barrington, to the Society, in trust, for the use of their church, which I will carefully transmit by the first good and safe opportunity. I conjecture that these lands amount to about the value of £100 sterling, and may rent at about £4 per annum. I send with this a copy of my letter of March 14th, 1764, also the New York Gazette, in which an account of the same matter was published, in general, true and exact. Much the same account, I am informed, was published in the Boston paper, and I have never heard that either of them has been contradicted. I remain, with thankfulness and submission,

The venerable Society's and your most

Obedient and humble Servant,

ROGER VIETS.

Rev. Sir :

I have received the venerable Society's letter of November last, for which I am heartily thankful.

As to Hartland, [Hartford?] I am willing to submit to the venerable Society's determination, but beg a little time to consult the circumstances, tempers and expectations of the people of that place. In the meantime I shall be ready to assist them on week days, as often as they desire, though they are not absolutely within my cure.

In the affair at Barrington, I endeavoured to overcome evil with good, which attempt I found very successful and advantageous. My conduct in that matter received the approbation of the greater part of the dissenters, and my own people (so far from being prejudiced against me thereby, as I was at first inconsiderately apprehensive,) greatly resented the malice and meanness of my prosecutors. I have now no fear of any bad consequences of that transaction, unless it should deprive me of the favour of the venerable Society, upon which I principally depend for my credit, direction and support, in a situation and profession of toil and difficulty. I will not offer one word in justification of an action which the venerable Society have pronounced irregular, whose judgment I acknowledge to be infinitely superior to mine; yet, by way of apology, I would observe, that as far as I can learn, the Clergy of the Church have been allowed to solemnize marriage universally throughout New England, without being thought to transgress the limits of their cure: otherwise, how could those Episcopal Churches which are destitute of a regular

Symsbury, June 25th, 1766.

Rev. Sir :

— There are such numbers of persons newly conforming, as something more than compensate for the numbers which the Church by several methods loses; for the venerable Society will please to observe, that many of my Episcopal parishioners remove their habitations into places far distant from all Episcopal Churches, and thereby are lost to our Church; that the dissenting meetings are so numerous, and in each of them a dissenting minister so constant, that the greater part of my people dwell much nearer to some meeting house, in which extemporary sermons and prayers are steadily exhibited, than to a Church in which the Service can be but seldom performed by one in holy orders: that, of consequence, many children of conformists will become dissenters, and that the dissenting cause has all the power and influence of civil government to support and countenance it. To these considerations may be added, the uncommon zeal which the dissenters of this Colony have for their own persuasion; the pastor, as above half the churches of New England are, have marriages performed in such a way as their consciences direct. The law on which I was prosecuted was passed when there was one or no Church in New England, and therefore could not specially refer to the Church Clergy. The law seems evidently intended to prevent those dissenting preachers who are settled within certain limits, from infringing on each other, the certificate I knew not to be essential, before I performed the marriage; and as soon as I found out how necessary the letter, though not the meaning of the law had made it, I was very sorry I had not obtained it beforehand. I give the venerable Society great thanks for the good books which they intend for me, which I hope ere long to receive, and improve to the advantage and edification of myself and my parishioners. I have baptized the last half year 38 infants, and have at present 34 steady communicants, and lost some by death and removals: however, I hope in my next to give a larger account of my communicants. — wealth, connections and ostentation of their teachers, the great veneration for the dissenting religion and its ministers, ceremonies and peculiarities, which is with surprising and indefatigable industry, instilled into their children with every part of their education: but, especially, the great superiority in numbers, which the opposers of the Church have against her friends, which gives a very great advantage in a place like the Colony of Connecticut. The form of government is almost, or entirely Republican. The proportion of Church people to the dissenters in Symsbury is nearly as one to three. The estimate of estate in Symsbury (for the year 1765) on which taxes are laid is £23,944 17s., of which £6,050 17s. is possessed by Episcopalians. The number of heads of families, under my care, in Symsbury, and parts adjacent, is 153. —

Symsbury, in N. England, Nov. 22d, 1766.

Rev. Sir :

— When the Stamp duty was promulgated in America, the Episcopalians of Connecticut, in general, (without a reprehensible officiousness) paid such a proper deference of submission, as we supposed ought to be paid to an Act of Parliament, at the same time bearing testimony against riotous, not to say rebellious proceedings of our neighbours; for which decent and loyal conduct we are still treated with unusual cruelty. Indeed, I at first feared a demolition of our Churches and dwelling houses. This calamity we happily escaped, but have been deprived of almost every one of the few public offices which we had enjoyed before, and have been constantly pointed at as the worst of traitors to our country, and betrayers of her most essential interest and liberties: but as the Parliament were pleased to promise special countenance and reward to such as behaved loyally in this point, so we have reason to hope that we shall at least have the pleasure to see Episcopacy, in due time, placed by that august body on an equal footing with sectarianism in New England. The authorities of old England, I doubt not, have found and will find Episcopalians in New England their most zealous defenders, for many obvious reasons.

— Our parishes, being so often and so long vacant, gives the very numerous and very vehement body of dissenting preachers (whose number is supposed by some not to fall short of 2000 in America) the fairest opportunities to carry on their favorite business of proselyting, in which employment, I am informed, they have made such alarming progress in some of the Episcopal Colonies, as to give serious ground to apprehend they may, in time, turn the scale of the establishment, unless there be a Bishop sent to America, which I pray God there may soon be; and could the venerable Society be on the spot and see the anxiety and concern of our poor, honest, conscientious people, for the privilege of having their children confirmed, and of having a greater number of ministers among them, they would not wonder at our importunity. I remain, venerable Sir, the Society's

And your most dutiful Missionary,

And most humble, obedient Servant,

ROGER VIETS.

Symsbury, in New England, June 25th, 1768.

Rev. Sir :

There have been several efforts lately made by the dissenters to oppress me as well as my people; as the bulk of New England

lence in myself. But it is to be observed, that the greater part of my people are very indigent, though very honest and well-behaved: nor could so many dissenting ministers be maintained, were it not by the assistance of the New England government which denominates us dissenters, and treats us as such.

There are fifty-two Congregational ministers in this County, viz: Hartford. In all the four New England Colonies there are 586 Congregational ministers, 38 of the Church Clergy, 39 Anabaptists, 10 Presbyterian, 30 Quaker Assemblies, and about 50 congregations of those called Separatists, somewhat resembling the old Independents.

It is the Congregationalists that take the chief benefit of the New England Establishment, (so called) not the Presbyterians, as has so often been inaccurately alledged. I will only add, that some of the money to support dissenting preachers is extorted from Churchmen, unjustly and illegally, in my humble opinion, who am, with gratitude and submission, &c.

ROGER VIETS.

is uneasy at some late regulations of the Government on your side the water, and look on us missionaries and our parishioners, as too much connected with Europe: but the cruelty and oppressions of dissenters only tend to unite us more closely among ourselves, and add to our numbers. —

I have now been in my mission five years, during which time I have read prayers and preached twice every Sunday, and often thrice a day, at different places, in the summer season—have christened 19 adults, 399 infants—married 28 couples—buried 34 corpses. My people in Symsbury have increased within this period, from 105 females to 161; in the townships adjacent, from 32 to 51; my communicants from 35 to 45, and I have had the happiness of such an universal affection from my people, that I cannot recollect a single person belonging to the Church at my arrival here, who has left the Church since: though it must be confessed, that several within the five years have conformed to the Church very hastily, and as hastily left it. This extraordinary unity I attribute to the goodness of God, and not to any excel-
